Teachers' Day Message

Date: 01-09-2017

Dear Teachers,

The wheels of change are in progress. A new era is excitedly awaiting our arrival and the only usher in this revolutionary change is the teacher.

Dr. Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, the great scholar and teacher, whose wish was to celebrate his birthday, 5th September, as Teachers' Day, held the view "Tolerance is the homage which the finite mind pays to the inexhaustibly of the Infinite".

These words may serve as essence of the very purpose of this momentous occasion. I need not remind you of your commitment to the awesome responsibility of providing quality education for our beloved students.

You are unique in yourself. The lives you are influencing by your words, thoughts and actions are going to be even more unique, enhanced and emancipated from the clutches of any evil that they encounter.

Let your hearts be flexible enough to accommodate every innocent smile that you are worth of sustaining. What I wish today is the liberation of your minds from any inhibition that may hamper your own growth.

I quote here the words of Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam "If a country is to be corruption free and become a nation of beautiful minds, I strongly feel there are three key societal members who can make a difference. They are the father, the mother and the teacher."

On the occasion of Teachers' Day I wish that may your lives be endowed with compassion, perseverance, nobility of purpose and empathy for all. Let your actions be exemplary to create everlasting impressions of all the positive values on the young minds.
